PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased
I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,
The Farm on which he resided,
On the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brook County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which in good meadow land. The buildings consist in two log dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, five miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of his farm. MILITARY GLORY.

The following remarks from Wilkinson's Memoirs, inculcate a lesson which cannot be too deeply impressed upon the mind of every member of this Republic.

FROM WILKINSON'S MEMOIRS.

"Military glory! fascinating sound! bewitching subject! but who profits by the acquisition? the nation! no, but those who live and feed on the nation. War, which subsists on the blood and treasure of the people, forms the aliment of this alluring dame, glory, and is utterly destructive of national happiness, which depends on peace and tranquility. I must not therefore be blamed for indulging a transient reflection upon these alternatives, which are as opposite in their nature as the poles. The fate and fortunes of all countries in all ages, will bear testimony in favor of my position, from remotest times down to the late transcendant glory of France, and the present deplorable condition of the United kingdom of Great-Britain and Ireland, whose government has reached the pinnacle of military fame, whilst its ill-fated subjects are plunged into the abyss of wretchedness.

"Military glory! It has become the favorite theme of our public councils, and the dominant passion of the rising generation, whilst national happiness, neglected and forgotten, has ceased to be an object of inquiry, and is sinking into oblivion, under the pressure of luxury, avarice, ambition and vain glory.

"Yet the following contrast is so striking and impressive, that I flatter myself it may rouse the most lethargic, before it be too late:

The Companions of military glory are—	The attendants on pacific policy are—
Wars,	Security.
Armies,	Agriculture,
Immorality,	Religion,
Vice,	Virtue,
Prodigality,	Economy,
Battles,	Ease and content,
Human Slaughter,	Domestic security,
Exactions,	Taxes on luxury,
Public debts,	Overflowing treasury,
Embargoes,	Commerce,
Penury,	Riches,
Famine,	Abundance,
Pestilence,	Health,
Widows and Orphans.	A smiling progeney.

"This contrast is neither strained nor affected; it is drawn from nature, and does not exhibit an hundredth part of the heart-rending horrors of war, nor the divine blessings and tranquil enjoyments of peace. Of these truths we have abundant proofs in our own times, and in our country; with the good and the ill before them, I implore Heaven so to direct the councils of the country, as long, very long to save it from the scourge of nations; and I will close these reflections with an applicable quotation from the writing of the sage, the patriot, and the Christian, John Dickinson, a citizen as eminent for wisdom, as he was conspicuous for private and social virtues.

"It is a mournful but instructive study to read the history of mankind. There we see their follies and their vices depicted at full length, accompanied by their miserable attendants. The prominent feature is an aptitude to plunge into wars—

"For a man, too haughty in a prosperous state,
"Is blind, and heedless to his future fate."

"A child may set fire to a house, but a whole city may not be able to prevent the conflagration from levelling the buildings in every street to the ground: "Ruant omnes in sanguinem suam populi obstinatæque peritatis pœnas nunc sponte per solvunt." "All nations rush forward to the effusion of their own blood, and voluntarily pay the penalties of their obstinate fierceness."

"It is an observation of antiquity, that "they are happy who grow wise by the misfortunes of others." This direction has been too little respected; and men generally choose "to grow wise by their own misfortunes." But as truth is never the worse for being long neglected, I hope and trust that my beloved countrymen will exert the good sense, they eminently possess and stand upon the guard of prudence and affection for themselves and their posterity

By the official account of the storming and capture of Barcelona, by the royalists, it appears, that the war in that region is assuming a sanguinary and deadly character. Very few persons, it would seem, who were in that place, at the time it was taken, escaped the vengeance of the assailants. It is stated by the commanding officer of the royal troops in the letter above mentioned, that he proposed to some unarmed families in the town to surrender at discretion—that his summons was rejected with insult—in consequence of which they were sacrificed on the spot. It is also stated that the black flag was hoisted in the town by the patriots, just before the assault commenced.

It is melancholy to reflect, that such a spirit of ferocity and blood thirstiness should so generally attend all attempts at emancipation from political servitude.—Such, however, is the fact; & if it must be the case that the first stages of deliverance from thraldom must be so deeply stained with blood, it is desirable that it should be accomplished as rapidly as is consistent with the future safety and happiness of the people. We wish most cordially that their prospects in this particular, were more flattering than we fear is the fact, but the progress of insurrection and revolution has become so general, and advanced so far, that it will not probably easily be allayed by any means in the power of the mother countries. Thus far we have seen no evidence of a well systematised, united, or thoroughly organized force in favour of independence—nor any appearance of those great civil and military characters, which such occasions almost invariably produce. We suspect that the patriots, thus far, are more indebted to the weakness of their oppressors than to their own strength, for whatever advantages they may have gained.

N. Y. E. P.

Electrical Torpedo.—Some very curious discoveries, highly interesting to the lovers of Natural History, have recently been communicated to the Royal Society, by Mr. Todd, a medical gentleman, as the result of numerous experiments on that wonder of nature, the Torpedo, or Electrical Fish. Mr. Todd observes, that the shocks received from the animal were never sensible above the shoulder, and seldom above the elbow joint: the intensity, also, of the shock bore no relation to the size of the fish, but an evident relation to its liveliness, and vice versa. The shock did not always follow the touch; but required a degree of irritation, such as pressing, or squeezing the animal; whilst not unfrequently animals to appearance perfectly vivacious, suffered this irritation without discharging any shock whatever. But the most curious fact is, that when caught by the hand, they writhed and twisted about, endeavoring to extricate themselves by muscular exertion; and did not, until they found these means unavailing, attempt the exercise of their electrical powers: though in many instances they had recourse to that power in the first moment of coercion. it was also ascertained by repeated experiments, putting two animals of equally apparent health into vessels of water, drawing successive shocks from one, and suffering the other to remain quiescent, that the death of the animal was hastened by the abstraction of its electric fluid!

The London Star, in reviewing the situation, and remarking on the resources and advantages possessed by great Britain, introduced the following on the subject of South America.

"As to the commerce which might be secured to this country with South America, we have always been of opinion that its value is of magnitude hardly to be calculated. And we have on many occasions stated our opinion, without disguise, that we owe no debt of gratitude to Spain. Spain assisted in wresting our North American colonies from us; from the United States the flame of Revolution reached France; this, by the rotation of the wheel reached South America. Britain invited and encouraged the South Americans to separate themselves from the Mother country; but at length she beat Bonaparte!—This very man sent back, in his deep policy, the beloved Ferdinand, and we have been such fools as to do what he wished us to do—to give up our efforts for the emancipation of South America, and thus deprive ourselves of the means we possessed for retrieving the prosperity of our commerce. Miserable infatuation and folly! to sacrifice such benefits in favour of—the Beloved Ferdinand. Would Spain have done so? Look at the American war. What nation upon earth would have done so except ourselves.

A private letter from Grand Cairo, in Egypt, dated Dec. 28, says.—"The plague, which had raged with great fury, has considerably abated, but the son of the Pacha has fallen a victim to this pestilence. He was a young man of distinguished abilities and attainments, and admired by the people and the sodiery. Some other relatives of the Pacha had also died of the plague, and a great number of his subjects. At Cairo they had experienced a circumstance not remembered by the oldest Egptian—four days of successive torrents of rain, which had nearly destroyed whole villages, The houses having been built of unbaked clay, scarcely a dwelling escaped without injury, and had the rain continued a few days longer, half the city of Cairo itself must inevitably have been washed away. Lady Hester Stanhope had reached Egypt. Her Ladyship continued in good health, and was distinguished for her humanity to all around her, and the generous assistance she afforded the Christian Pilgrims going to Jerusalem. The Nile was then receding, leaving the country in the most abundant luxuriance."

SWEDISH HORSES.

I was surprised to find in the Royal Stables in Sweden, that there was no straw or other bedding for the horses. The animals stand or lie on perforated boards; this is an universal practice. It has been approved by the Veterinary Colleges of both Stockholm and Copenhagen, and adopted by the royal and other great families on account of its salutary effect on the foot of the Horse. In countries where the horses stand in a hot bed produced by their own litter, their feet become tender and subject to divers disorders; but you seldom see a lame horse in Sweden or Denmark. If this should prove a good substitute for straw, it might bring about a reduction in the price of Hay.

[Acerbi's Travels through Sweden, &c.

Naples has not formally acknowledged Maria Louisa, as Sovereign of the State of Parma; and this is the only court in Europe, which has neglected to do so. Ferdinand who was restored, and is still defended by an Austrian army, nevertheless chooses not to relinquish some dormant claim to a territory, which from a distant period has been held by Austria. His claim, it seems, is founded on his being the heir of the Farnese family, once Princes of Parma.

Small Pox Exterminated.—In Sweden the universal practice of vaccination has entirely exterminated the small pox, so that no case of that disease has occurred during the last two years. Notwithstanding the efforts of the French government in support of this system, the deaths by the small pox form a considerable item in the bills of mortality.

BALTIMORE, May 30.

On the 27th inst. about 8 o'clock, 9 of the criminal prisoners confined in this city, made their escape. The circumstances relating to their escape, as received by us, are as follow:—They made an incision in the stone wall of the jail, in which they deposited powder, and it is believed from a train laid, set fire to it, which effected a breach sufficient to suffer 6 men to pass abreast—they then flew to the room, armed with knives and clubs, in which the turn key resides, and wrested from him the keys of the doors, attempted to kill the turn key, wounded in several places a black man employed in the jail, as well as one of their own party—and finally escaped from the door of the jail, locking the door after them.

A man on Central wharf, Boston, sucked rum from a hogshead until he expired!

The public debt of Germany, in 1816, amounted to the enormous sum of 2,000-000,000.

EXTRAORDINARY CALF.

A Calf, the offspring of a Cow belonging to Mr. James Harry, of this place, was dropped on Wednesday last, which, among thousands of other instances, exhibits the wonderful operations of nature in the most extraordinary degree. The calf weighed at its birth fifty five and an half pounds;—has one head and two bodies, which join under the shoulders near the heart; its hinder parts are distinctly and perfectly formed, there is but little, if any, difference in the size of the bodies;—there are eight legs, all properly formed and of usual size, one set of which are placed in their proper order; the hind legs of the other set appear also to be in their proper place, but the fore legs are on the back, near the junction of the bodies!—There is but one heart, which is perfectly formed;—two sets of lungs—two windpipes, one of them impervious and placed where the gullet (of which there is none) should have been; there are two livers, and four Kidneys; two distinct spines, connected at the posterior part of each jaw; The pulmonary artery (or the artery which supplies the lungs) was calculated to serve the purpose of distributing the blood through the body.—We have endeavored to give as minute a description as possible, in plain language, of this curiosity. We regret that our ignorance of the anatomy of the animal species, and technical phrases, prevented our giving it in terms which would perhaps have been more acceptable to the faculty.

Winchester Gazette.

A Correspondent observes, that a Mr. Lockhart is among the passengers arrived at New York, in the Aurora from Liverpool, and asks whether it is the same personage who was reported in the English papers as having given a severe castigation to William Cobbett. It is not in our power to give an answer to this enquiry: But we can scarcely believe it possible, that an M. P. of the British Legislature, would carry his resentment so far as to follow his antagonist over a trakless ocean of three thousand miles.—Phil. Gaz.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY, JUNE 10, 1817.

Of what consequence is it to the federalists whether Heister or Findlay is made Governor? Do the federalists expect to gain any thing from either of them? If they do they will be woefully disappointed—and they will be equally disappointed if they expect any change of policy. It is as easy for the Leopard to change his spots or the Ethiope his skin, as for a democratic officer in Pennsylvania to act independently. It is to be hoped therefore that the federal party will not disgrace itself by becoming the cats-paw of either. Let us vote for a federal candidate or not at all; and let Duane, Binns, Lieb, Sutherland, Heister and Findlay fight it out among themselves.

Who were the most rancorous and deadly enemies to federalism a few years ago? the old school democrats. Who abused and vilified the intelligent and respectable federal candidate who was opposed to M'Kean—who struck at his fame, his private character and his happiness, in a manner that would have disgraced barbarians? the old school democrats. Who turned out to starvation the old and faithful servants of the commonwealth, who had served under Mifflin and who had many of them fought in the revolution? the old school democrats. Who were joined with the federalists against Snyder? the old school democrats. Who thanked the federalists on that occasion? the old school democrats! Who has been indicted and flogged for libelling federalists? Duane. Who stole the certificates? Leib.

MAD DOGS.—Considerable alarm prevails in this city and neighbourhood about mad dogs, We are requested to warn our fellow citizens of the danger. On Friday morning last, a dog with every appearance of madness was running thro' the streets of this city, and bit, as we are informed, upwards of thirty other dogs.

Literary labor well rewarded.—It is stated in the New-Haven Journal, that Noah Webster, jr. esq. has sold to George Goodwin and sons, of Hartford, the copy right of his spelling book for forty thousand dollars.

A decision has lately been had in the English courts of justice, which establishes the precedent, that no school-master can expel a scholar without giving the parents of the child timely notice.

Unexampled carnage.—It is said, that in the battle of Waterloo, fifteen thousand men were killed in half an hour in an orchard not exceeding four acres in extent: the ranks being mowed down over and over again, and their places filled up with fresh victims. Fifteen thousand in four acres, or in the proportion of a little upwards of 3 to the perch or rod!

A biographical sketch of Lord Wellington remarks, that the greater part of the day during the battle his Lordship was in tears—that to the Earl of Aberdeen, who had lost a brother at Waterloo, he wrote, "The glory resulting from such actions is no consolation to me, and I cannot imagine that it is any to you."—Con. Cour.

Napoleon's Memoirs.—We have hastily perused this work, which is for sale at almost every book-store in the city, and very much incline to the opinion, from the internal evidence it affords, that it is genuine. It is quite incorrect, however, to call it a Life of Napoleon, or Napoleon's Memoirs, for it bears very little resemblance to biography. Instead of a detail of facts which that word implies, it rather developes motives, briefly mentioning or merely glancing at the principle events of his reign. In doing this, there is throughout such a perpetual appearance of egotism, so concise and abrupt a style, and such an impatience in speaking of whatever is disastrous and mortifying, particularly so cautious a silence respecting the decisive battle of Waterloo, where his personal pride at finding himself matched with and overcome by a greater soldier than he, received a fatal downfall; all these are strong circumstances to designate the author of this book. The editor of the London Times, however, says it is reported that it comes from the pen of some person connected with the celebrated Madame De Stael.

The New-Orleans Gazette of April 25, contains the depositions of Maj. Gen. Ripley, Com. Patterson, sailing master Looms and Mr. Stuart, taken before a committee of the City Council, appointed to investigate the circumstances of the riot in that city, on the 18th of March. General Ripley states that he was applied to for a detachment of troops to disperse a mob that threatened to sink the ship Hamilton that he at first declined going until his interference should be requested by the civil authority—but that on the urgent solicitation of the gentlemen who called on him, he proceeded to the scene of the riot with a body of troops. The rioters had previously taken possession of the ship. After dispersing the crowd, he placed a guard on board the ship on which the violence had been committed, which remained there until morning.

Com. Patterson states that he was requested by gentlemen who were interested in the fate of vessels lying near the Hamilton, to order the vanes of the Hamilton, which had excited the hostility of the mob to be pulled down, and was told that the captain of the Hamilton had observed, that if the commodore requested him to haul them down, he would do so. The commodore replied that the vanes contained nothing offensive to the government of the United States, or in violation of its laws, and that were he in the captain's place he would not haul them down by compulsion.

Mr. Stuart states that he went with the captain of the Hamilton to the Mayor, and requested his interference to disperse the crowd that was collecting around the ship; who replied that he could not do any thing. Some time afterwards, when the mob had increased, and had commenced an attack which was resisted by the crew of the ship, the Mayor went on board, and told the captain to go into the cabin, and the crew were ordered to desist from opposition, on the Mayor's promise to take charge of the ship. Shortly afterwards, the Mayor having left the ship, the mob forced themselves on board her with pistols, swords and cutlasses, attacked the crew, shot one man through the neck, and committed other acts of violence.

We have had several accounts of earthquakes abroad. One lately at Jerusalem in Palestine. One in Spain in March, which was felt through the whole kingdom, and was severe in both the northern and southern provinces. A few days before one was felt in Messina, in Scicily. An earthquake had been felt at Bayonne. But of them all as the most violent, has been represented that of Yucatan, upon the ithsmus which joins North and South America. Humboldt observes, "If the isthmus were once burst, by some similar catastrophe to that which opened the columns of Hercules, the current of rotation, instead of ascending the gulph of Mexico, and issuing through the canal of Bahama, would follow the same parallel line from the coast of Paria to the Phillipine islands. This woud either occasion the disappearance or diminish the celerity of the Gulph Stream." This is calculated upon the height of the two seas, the difference is still undetermined. Several shocks had been felt in the last season in different parts of the West Indies, and some small shocks in different parts of the United States. [Essex Reg.

Capt. Ray, arrived at New York, from Trinidad, informs that a Spanish schr. from Jamaica, bound to Cuba, having on board property valued at a million and a half of dollars, was captured about the 20th of April, by a Carthagenian privateer, said to be the late Monmouth, of Baltimore.

On Tuesday last Thomas Johnston, for some short time a resident of this County, was tried on the charge of having committed a rape on his own DAUGHTER! This crime is perhaps the most outrageous one that has ever been heard of in any christian country, and we think, merits no less sentence than has been passed on him—which is 21 years confinement in the Penitentiary. Wellsburgh Gaz.

Prospects of the year.—The present year does not promise to be near so plentiful, in many respects, as the last. The crop of Politics will be remarkably short, and of an indifferent quality: That of news very little better. On the whole, however, these may with economy and prudence, be sufficient for home consumption.

Specie.—More abundant than it has been since 1812, but in most places rather sour, as the Fox would say. Some importations, of a good quality, have taken place.

Bank Notes.—There are fewer this year than usual, but considerably improved in quality. It may be doubted though, whether there will be sufficient for the demand.

Due Bills.—The culture of these has been pretty generally discontinued; many persons having been somewhat injured by using them.

Rumours.—A very promising crop, but it is said they do not fill very well.

Lies.—An average quantity will be raised, and abundant supplies are expected from abroad.

Wit.—No very flattering prospects with regard to this article at present.

Humour.—Hardly enough was raised last year, for seed, and supplies from abroad are anxiously looked for.

Puns.—Crops pretty good about Philadelphia and Trenton; the quality, however, not the best. Great pains are taken, however, to improve the article by the growers. Raleigh Star.

NEW-YORK, May 28.

Great fire at Sag-Harbor.—On Monday last at one o'clock, a fire broke out in a barn situated in the midst of a cluster of buildings at the dock, which comprised the business part of the town of Sag-Harbor, L. Island, and raged with such violence, that in one hour and a half the whole block was laid in ashes, together with most of their contents. The fire is supposed to have originated by the sparks from a blacksmith's shop. The whole number of valuable buildings destroyed is thirty-two, besides out houses, &c. By this disaster many families and individuals are reduced from affluent and respectable circumstances, to indigence and want.—Very little of the property was insured. The amount of loss has not yet been ascertained, but it is supposed to be about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Fortunately the wind was in a direction from the wharf, and the vessels lying there escaped uninjured.

Cure for Coughs and Colds.

HAMILTONS' ELIXIR,

A SOVEREIGN remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, astmahs, sore throats, and approaching consumptions, and most disorders of the breast and lungs.

A SINGLE TRIAL

Will prove, that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration; that it dislodges and evacuates the tough viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of he lungs, sheathes the acrimonious humor twhich irritates them, and finally discharges it Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course, effectually and permanently conquered; the reverse of common medicines, which weaken the constitution and gives strength to the disorder, for the sake of moderating for the present, some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the WHOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

TO H. LEE.

Being desirous to make public, for the good of others, the excellent quality of HAMILTONS' ELIXIR, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it, which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast, received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had to rise up in my bed, with all the horrors of immediate suffocation. Add to these a constant pain on my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamiltons' Exizir a trial, saying he had used it in his practice, and always found it do much good. A bottle was procured, and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it, and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

In sickly times or places, a dose should be taken every fortnight, and if there is reason to apprehend personal danger, it may be taken once a week.

They have been found remarkably efficacious n preventing and curing diso ders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S Worm Destroying Lozenges.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of a similar title so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is, its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent and is so mild in its operation, that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach or bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many other fatal disorders.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the "vomiting and purging of children," a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and the restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaints Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.
